

Meet Arlington Interns

Internship Program - Is a program where colleges and universities along with high school students are mentored by Arlington's Director and staff and other community partners to learn about Arlington and Birmingham's rich history.

My name is Tara Tibbs. I am currently enrolled at the University of Montevallo. My major is History. I 'm an intern for History 459 which is a class featuring internships. I am so honored to be able to volunteer my time to help preserve one of the oldest historic houses in Birmingham, Alabama. I am originally from McCalla, Alabama and excited to learn and share Birmingham's rich history with our community.

Morgan Hunt moved to Vestavia Hills in 2019 while attending the University of Montevallo where she recently finished her BS in Art. With her business, Morgan Hunt Media, she works as a freelance commercial and wedding photographer in the Birmingham area while pursuing her MA in Photography from Savannah College of Art and Design. She is currently partnering with Arlington House, as well as several local chefs and restaurants, documenting southern food for her MA final portfolio."
